

Policy for the Prevention of Money Laundering (PLD)

Money laundering is the process through which the origin of funds generated through the exercise of illegal activities is concealed.

At Coastoil Dynamic, we are committed to ethics, transparency, and the exercise of good practices in accordance with our Code of Ethics and Conduct; it is the responsibility of all collaborators who have a relationship with our stakeholders to prevent money laundering-related activities and to be alert for the identification of unusual or suspicious transactions.

For the aforementioned purposes, Coastoil Dynamic employees must:

- Adhere to applicable anti-corruption and anti-laundering laws and obligations, the Code of Ethics and Conduct and internal policies.
- Refrain from any act of money laundering. If this ever happens, the collaborator will be subject to internal sanctions according to the internal work regulations and Code of Ethics and Conduct; and externally the sanction will correspond to what is established in the regulatory framework of the applicable Anti-Corruption and Anti-Money Laundering Law.
- Carry out Due Diligence processes of Third Parties, previous to the establishment of any relationship plan. Following what is indicated in the Coastoil Dynamic Due Diligence Procedure.
- Report when a proven or suspected money laundering event occurs; the collaborator or third party will be protected from retaliation as long as the complaint is in terms of "Good faith". The complaint can be made through the email denuncia@coastoildynamic.com
- Participate in the training and diffusion of the topics related to the Coastoil Dynamic ethics system.
- Use Coastoil Dynamic's official ERP systems for any business transaction, adhering to internal accounting and financial policies and procedures.

This policy serves as a reference for monitoring and compliance with laws and obligations for the fight against money laundering within Coastoil Dynamic.
